Postmaster's Salary.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune writes the postmaster general to turn his attention to "the most inaccountable and fantastic variations and extravagances in postmaster salaries. He refers to those known as presidential appointments, which are in the country 1,567, and attached salaries varying from $1,000 to $6,000. These salaries are arranged in the most haphazard manner, the result of years of party favoritism and corruption. The graduation of pay now in force throws aside common sense, business wisdom and fair play.

The postmaster for instance at Chicago, who has a postoffice of 40,000, receives a salary of $4,000 a year, and so does the postmaster of Aurora, which is a suburb of Chicago, and contains only 12,000 people. The postmaster of Newark, in the same state, gets only $2,000. The latter is a small manufacturing city, and is five times as populous as Newark. Every state in the Union shows the same unaccountable differences. Pawtucket, Rhode Island, is put on the same footing with Atlanta, although the former contains only 6,619 inhabitants. Titusville, Pa., and Savannah, Ga., are each on the $4,000 level, the town numbers only 8,330. Liverpool, N. Y., with 12,439 inhabitants, ranks with St. Louis, that contains nearly half a million people. It is unnecessary to multiply examples. The hand of the industrial and unprincipled politician is visible all through the list.

The colored people of Georgia are not marked. Atlanta, Augusta, Macon and Savannah are each on the $4,000 level; Columbus comes next with a salary of $3,000; Rome, $2,300; Athens, $2,700; Griffin, $2,400; Albany, $1,800; Americus, Brunswick, Cartersville and Marietta each $1,600. There are no great distinctions in the salaries of the whole country, but there is a small office in the north is allowed a salary far out of proportion to the business it transacts, or the force it requires.

The ridiculous inequality of salaries in this department is best illustrated by the pay of Col. Bangs, superintendent of the railway mail service for the whole United States. He supervises 67,734 miles of railway postal service, and keeps in order by far the most important branch of the postal work. He receives $2,500 a year. There are nearly four hundred postmasters in the country who receive more pay than Col. Bangs.

The Tribune's correspondent records Mr. Lowell's practice of cutting off the pay of contractors in Texas, "who carried imaginary routes in imaginary coaches on imaginary routes to imaginary nowhere." He asks him to consider this matter of salaries of the executive postmasters. A judicious reform in this respect would result in an annual saving of nearly a million dollars, and would thus materially help to make the carrying of the mails a self-supporting business. At least it would bring in fair play, and smash the numerous little pieces of bare-faced favoritism that have been accumulating ever since the beginning of the war.

MASS MEETING IN GORDON COUNTY.

Great enthusiasm for the "Old Man Home," Dabney.

[Special to the Constitution.]

CALHOUN, November 3, 1914.

A large and enthusiastic mass meeting of the democratic party was held here today.

Speeches were made by Col. W. H. Dabney, Gen. John R. Gordon, Gen. P. M. Young and Col. G. N. Lewis.

Would that every man in the seventh congressional district could have heard Gen. Gordon's noble effort. He concluded his speech to a vote—Dabney or Felton, and Dabney was elected by a large majority. He then presented him as the democratic representative of the seventh congressional district.

[SECOND TELEGRAM.]

600 Hundredth Meeting in Gordon for Dabney.

CALHOUN, November 3, 1914.

Dabney, Gen. Gordon and Col. Lewis addressed an immense multitude of people here today. The enthusiasm is great. Dabney will carry Gordon county by six hundred majority.

HENRY COUNTY.

Agricultural Society Formed.

Zoar, Henry Co., Ga., Oct. 31, 1914.

By announcing through the columns of your valuable paper, the organization of an agricultural society, the people of this county have been greatly benefited.

The following officers were this day elected: H. H. Hightower, president; C. H. Patterson, vice-president; J. H. Smith, secretary, and W. H. Smith, treasurer.

The attendance was not as large as expected, but the meeting was a success.

The farmers here are very poor, and are in need of help.

We are satisfied the hearts and minds of our people are enlarged, and they are more united than ever.

We are confident that the future of our county is bright, and that we will
